USE MILKING MACHINE CORRECTLY

An important step in an effective mastitis control program is correct use of the milking machine, says Dr. S. L. Kalison, veterinarian at VPI.

He says the milking machine must be in proper adjustment, the individual parts must be in good condition, and the attendant must give his undivided attention to the job at hand. A dairyman should have only as many milking units as he can handle correctly.

Individual cows may need special attention and should be considered in the milking program. Strict sanitation, good milking practices, and prompt treatment of infectious mastitis all play important parts in reducing the toll taken each year by mastitis, the veterinarian says.

If treatment is necessary, Dr. Kalison says to select the drugs on the basis of a proper diagnosis.

Milk from treated quarters should be withheld from market for 72 hours after treatment.

EDUCATION PAYS

Brantford, Ont.- Daniel Buhl, 31, whose hobbies are mathematics and sports car driving, won a dismissal on a charge of speeding.

Buhl told the court a radar unit will clock a short car at a greater speed than it is actually traveling. Such a unit had clocked his 15-foot sports car at 38 miles an hour, but the difference in length between his vehicle and a normal 18-foot model would result in a deviation of 5.92 m.p.h, he testified. That would mean he was going within the sped limit. Buhl produced figures worked up with a slide rule to prove his point.

The case was dismissed.

Tough On Men

Life is cruel to men. When they are born, their mothers get compliments and flowers; when they get married, the bride gets presents and publicity; and when they die, their widows get the insurance and the winters in Florida.
